Casanova de Seingalt, 1725-1798 Autobiography: Far Off Things Criticism: Arthur Machen: A Novelist of Ecstasy and Sin (With Two Uncollected Poems by Arthur Machen)

RUN FOR YOUR LIFE! There is a secret concealed deep beneath the frozen crust of ice and snow at the foot of the Endicott Mountain Range, just within the Gates of the Arctic National Park in Alaska. Here, the United States Government has a secret test site where it developed, tested, and finally unleashed an unimaginable horror-The Xanadu Project. Their plan is to bring a savior to the global community-the USA. But the real horror of this project unfolds in the enormous underground facility where behavioral scientists learn to manipulate the seven deadly sins hidden deep within the core of the human brain. The vehicle they choose to administer this secret project is utterly benign. They choose something everyone has, loves and will pay top price for the very best. The horror is delivered through the nation's sacred athletic shoes. The shoes promise to make each wearer's life better. They can make the wearer taller, thinner and richer. But, as the shoes deliver on their promise, they also deliver something hideous. Something unsuspected by the millions of innocent owners ... until it's too late. And now, the very fate of the world rests in the hands of two people-one operating under the threat of an inoperable brain tumor and the other a frightened, phobia-choked novice detective. Will they manage to save the world from the apocalyptic fury of the Xanadu Project? ABOUT THE AUTHOR: Sherry's passion for writing has been a lifelong journey full of dark slippery roads which has produced an eclectic jumble of novels. She lives with her family in the beautiful Great Lakes region of the Midwest. When not writing and reading she is an avid tropical landscape artist, which depicts the only season not offered in the Midwest.

This first book-length critical examination of the life and work of Marjorie Bowen (1885-1952) reveals a major English writer whose prodigious output included stories of history, romance, and the supernatural. As Pulitzer Prize-winning critic Michael Dirda writes in his Foreword, Bowen may be "the finest British woman writer of the uncanny of the last century," a view that echoes the high regard of cultural historian Edward Wagenknecht, who called her "a literary phenomenon," one whose best work places her alongside such contemporaries as Edith Wharton and Daphne du Maurier. Publicly acclaimed--known only by a series of pseudonyms (including "Marjorie Bowen")--but privately inscrutable, she was and is a mysterious and complex character. Drawing for the first time upon archival resources and the cooperation of the Bowen Estate, this book reveals a woman who saw herself as a rationalist and serious historian, but also as a mystic and "dark enchantress of dread." Above all, through a lifetime of domestic storms and creative ecstasy, Bowen worked tirelessly as both a professional writer and a consummate artist, always seeking, as she once confessed, "to find beauty in dark places."
